

EXPERIENCE SUMMARY

TEAM GOOD VIBEZ

Danielle Brown, Bess Hernreich,
Laura Loáiciga, Chang Su & Hank Yao

CHALLENGE STATEMENT

Visiting sex toy shops can be seen as a SHAMING, EMBARRASSING and NERVE-RACKING experience. How can we make the experience better?

FINAL CONCEPT STORYBOARD

Originally, we started with a speak-easy sex shop concept.

We landed on becoming a sex shop at the core that had a membership program attached for customers to enjoy exclusive benefits.

Shortly after we created our storyboards, we changed directions.

This decision came from insights gathered, feedback and conversations with Barry.

We eliminated the speakeasy to focus more on our membership program and sales events.

We wanted to align a realistic story with a fun element for such a taboo topic.

5e Experience

1-Excitement

Touch Points

Black Curtain, Good VibeZ Posters, Enthusiastic Brand Ambassador, Male and Female shop assistants waiting outside for choice.

INTERVIEWER / NOTETAKER

Each team member conducted and took notes for at least one interview each.

HYPOTHESES

EXPERIENCES

Incorporating sexual experiences into an everyday ritual takes away the stigma.

STIGMA

Societal stigma prevents people from openly discussing sexual preferences and purchasing sex toys.

CULTURE

Sexuality is defined by what people are taught based on culture, nationality, surroundings, etc.

METHODOLOGY

RECRUIT PARTICIPANTS

Relied on personal network to determine five diverse participants.

QUALITATIVE INTERVIEWS

Each team member conducted at least one hour interview based on guide developed by team.

SYNTHESIS

Individually noted patterns and outliers. Then reviewed as a group to determine top takeaways.

IDENTIFY INSIGHTS

Based on takeaways, developed insights to help guide us in developing next steps.

QUOTES

“The overall vibe I wanna feel is less of an adult store, when I think of that it’s more so old porn, plastic, and it's pretty old school. The era of DVD porn is over. That's a red flag if I see it.”

“I find it weird when an older person is selling me a toy and gets too excited. When someone is overly friendly it’s awkward for me. Overall it’s been fun. Everytime I double check no one's watching before walking in. You want to try things and see it worth or not.”

“The first time I went into a sex store, it was Good Vibrations in the Mission and it was pride weekend. That sex store was literally having a party, I had no anxiety, it felt fun, it normalized it. It felt respectful and private but also felt like I was just going to a clothing store.”

INSIGHTS

Privacy is a main concern for customers when purchasing sex toys in-store.

Online sex toy stores provide information, reviews, safety and comfort.

People most often purchase sex toys to spice things up with a partner.

When looking for sex toys, most people find products via Instagram.

People purchase sex toys sporadically, once or twice a year.

Men typically purchase sex toys with a partner and women typically purchase sex toys individually.

9 Leave the Venue:

Cindy leaves the venue, taking off her mask and feeling exhilarated. She is excited to have found a community in a laptop industry.

10 Follow-Up Email:

A couple of days later, Cindy receives a follow-up email. It says 'Thank You! Cum Again' and has a smiley face.

INSIGHTS

Tailored social activities within a sex toy store can help reduce customers' sense of shame when shopping.

Too much emphasis on secrecy can further enhance the stigma around purchasing sex toys.

Creating a safe space for like minded people to bond promotes a sense of community within the sex toy shopping experience.

CONCLUSION

We moved forward with a speakeasy based on our feedback from the storyboards. Participants were more inclined to attend a speakeasy for the following reasons:

1. A speakeasy is a unique opportunity to socialize with like minded individuals while being introduced to a new community.
2. A speakeasy is a safe space for customers to privately and enjoyably purchase sex toys.
3. Customers leave feeling excited and inspired with their sex toy shopping experience.

Concept Exploration & Prototype

LET'S TALK ABOUT SPEAKEASIES

CREATION

Speakeasies were born in the 1920s during prohibition as a way to sell alcohol illicitly in secret bars.

EXPERIENCE

Speakeasies are historically known for providing exclusive, private and tantalizing experiences.

REPLICATION

We sought to replicate a similar experience in a sex toy retail space.

Prototype Feedback

PEER FEEDBACK

Check out the gay saunas.

HMW build habits and recurring events around sex toys?

Look up the hanky code

What if the mood bracelet is a sex toy? you could use the colors to communicate a mood or kink.

Look up high-protocol kink events

Love the golden key aspect - makes it feel like you have a right to be there.

What about drinks that could set the mood?

Can the food be more thematic? I'm thinking aphrodisiacs being served to get people in the mood.

HMW sounds wanderlust-y.

How are you all making sure that men are also included in the experience of discovering sex toys?

PEER FEEDBACK

My biggest question with these concepts is how are you going to make sure that this remains a safe environment? I think the concepts would benefit from more proactive procedures that ensure there is no harassment.

Also loved the wristband idea. We explored wristbands in our early concepts and a lot of the feedback we got indicated that people did not want to use any additional hardware and would prefer to use their phones or apple watches. This may not apply to your concept if you are simply giving out the bracelets just for the time the customer are in the store/event though. I just wonder if you could have the same functionality on an app and not have to introduce anything new for simplicity.

Thinking about interior design of the space – does the mood/"vibe" change for each participant? Lighting could be a fun way to achieve this.

What if the interior design visualized an orgasm (abstractly).

Georgia Okeefe should definitely be on the wall.

Yayoi Kusama rooms are an interesting reference.

What color spectrum is associated with the different quadrants on your 2x2?

Really like the idea of the wrist band indicators allowing people to be left alone or helped as needed.

PANEL FEEDBACK

How can you make it comfortable for people who are shyer?

Like the aspect of the masquerade mask.

Décor looks like a grandma's house - align the décor with the experience of a private speakeasy.

Maybe a membership program?

Really like the glow bracelet idea, and in a dark private space.

Would be nice to add people into the space.

Incorporate the glowing to the products.

How do the bracelets interact with each other?

When you take a product off the shelf, can project instructions or description of the project.

Pause at certain high concept moments to explain it clearly by showing more examples during the presentation.

KEY UNCERTAINTIES

Will people want to attend sex toy store events, vs. buying a product during regular hours?

Will people purchase toys, or just attend the event?

Will people pay to attend this event?

Will people be intrigued?

HYPOTHESIS

We hypothesize that Connection Through the Stars will motivate people to purchase sex toys and they'll feel the event was worth paying for.

METHOD

Include fake sex toys and observe if anyone is "purchasing"

Include cards with each sex toy, instruct participants to take and bring to cashier if they want that product

After participants leave the experience, ask if they "purchased" a toy. Ask why or why not.

INSIGHTS

Guest Critic + Lecturers

Too much focus on product, needs to be more of an experience.

Add more types of sex toys such as the one for men.

Don't brand it as a sex store, say it's something else.

Add more relative content on the back of the card cause people naturally want to turn it over and see.

Imagine the role of a shop assistant; we don't just ask questions, we can do something about it.

Introduce more intentional elements such as music, pictures to better illustrate the atmosphere of a horoscope party.

INSIGHTS

Target Participants

The shop assistant could explain the products to them in details, i.e. how to use, function, material.

Customers could use more personal space. Give them opportunities to shop alone without assistants.

They want to learn more about how the products are connected to their horoscopes.

Prepare something for customers to do when they are waiting outside the store.

How can people buy the membership?

Appreciate the concept. It could be really helpful to introduce people into the unfamiliar sex toys world through horoscopes which everyone already knows.

INSIGHTS

Teammates

Be mindful of (not) using the "negative" aspects of astrology signs to describe tie to product choice.

Loved the cavernous feel of the space.

Loved the intimacy of the space.

I'm curious if star sign is the best identifier for sexual toy preference. I almost think it could be something like favorite band/music type, tv show, etc.

Great job on the props (would love to see w/ cleaner post-processing).

I like the neon/led lights but with the black curtains it started to feel a bit red light district.

CHANGES

Modify space to ensure participants feel like they are attending an event and not only a store.

Add visual and verbal cues that emphasize how horoscope theme relates to sex toy shopping experience.

Add defined role for every member of the team to enhance client experience.

INSIGHTS

Guest Critic + Lecturers

Be less apologetic about the subject. Lean into it completely.

Too many people inside the tent, it feels crowded.

Feels like a fun experience and different to other sex shop experiences.

INSIGHTS

Professors

Could the game be more closely related to the products and why they're chosen for each sign?

Give more insight as to why choose between Bess or Hank. Is it a male/female decision?

The information about the membership at the beginning felt overwhelming.

VALUE PROPOSITION

For Good Vibez membership holders, who have an interest in learning about varieties of human eroticism, our exclusive events offer a tantalizing way to explore and discover. Unlike other sex stores, Good Vibez creates experiences that educate and entice.
